HOAGLAND'S
NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!
W. E. COOPER

HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive
Carriage Factory,
Corner of Second and Morrison Streets
He respectfully refers to the following
CARD.

Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling invented by H. B. Hoagland we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used

It fastens without bolt or screw and is therefore easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure

It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent heretofore considered the best in use

Tennessee Affairs

WASHINGTON, April 12 —Gov Senter of Tennessee was again before the Reconstruction Committee to day. His testimony was to the effect that it was necessary in order to preserve peace that he should be aided by the Federal Government. One Boone will be the next witness. He claims to have been a Confederate officer but is now a Republican. He asserts that while a candidate for office his friends were prevented from voting and he was obliged to flee from Nashville

The Times' Washington special says Gen Pope will probably be assigned to the military division of the Pacific in place of Gen Thomas

CHICAGO, April 13 —It is evident there is a state of feeling in the Supreme Court by no means pleasant relative to rehearing the Legal Tender case and cases so presented involve other points on which argument will be offered. In any event the Attorney General asks that legal tender argument may also be made. Chase, Clifford and Field hold that the same order or argument of last year precludes this, but the majority overrule them, though Chase may be able to throw any further decision over until next winter

In Senate Republican caucus yesterday in the case of Secretary Gorham, the evidence before the Investigation Committee was submitted, and Gorham read a statement of his defense and in explanation of pending charges. A meeting of the caucus will be held to morrow, when Senator Cole will be heard

Anti-Polygamy Bill.

CHICAGO, April 13 —The Tribune's Washington special says the anti polygamy bill as reported by the Senate Committee on Territories retains all the amendments to which the House on Cullom's motion agreed, and half a dozen other sections. Officers of the Mormon church are not only prohibited from solemnizing marriages but it is made a misdemeanor punishable with fine and imprisonment. Marriages in violation of the terms of the bill are declared incestuous and void and all persons aiding or consenting to them are to be punished for misdemeanor. Spiritual marriages, sealing ceremonies and all other devices whereby men get services of women are prohibited, and so called spiritual wives may sue and recover payment for their labor. The Mormon remonstrance adopted at Salt Lake City about a fortnight since, applicable to this bill and all other anti Mormon legislation, was to-day presented

Southern Pacific Railroad

WASHINGTON April 12 —The members of Congress from the Gulf States met to-night to consider the subject of a Southern Pacific Railroad. They agreed to support a charter making the terminus at Marshall Texas, with right to other roads to connect at or west of Marshall, connecting roads to carry freight or passengers under the Merchant's Mutual Beneficial gauge of track of connecting lines to be five feet. The McFarland Trial

[illegible] April 13 —The Tribune's New York special says the testimony for the defense in the McFarland case will probably close on Thursday. Greeley, Sam Sinclair and [illegible] and Mrs Calhoun will be called by the prosecution to prove McFarland's brutality towards his wife before the acquaintance with Richardson. [illegible] interest in the trial is steadily increasing. The newspapers are selling larger editions than [illegible] time past. Judge Hackett to day ruled [illegible] certain testimony in reference to Richardson until the proof [illegible] was not on trial and it is thought that he may apply the rule to much of the evidence that the prosecution is ready to offer

A New York special gives a letter not published in the Associated Press report from Mrs Calhoun to Mrs McFarland, which it says created more than an ordinary sensation on account of an allusion to J Russell Young. The following passage occurs: There are just three persons who are much to me in the Tribune, J R Y and you can guess the other two. In the Court of Inquiry held by Admiral Rowan the proceedings consisted of little more than the repetition of evidence given at the late inquiry by the survivors. At the close of the Court it was determined to forward the evidence to Washington for the action by the Navy Department. All survivors of the wreck will leave for Washington this morning. The divers sent down to examine the wreck of the Oneida were unable to penetrate to the lower deck, the hatches being blocked up with broken spars, bulkheads, chairs etc. It is probable that efforts will yet be made by the U S Admiralty to recover the guns, engines etc and perhaps the whole of the wreck as it now lies but we believe that further operations will be suspended until Admiral Rowan personally decides on what is to be done after the tenders for raising her are opened

THURSDAY MORNING APRIL 14 1870

No Dodging!

Who could have supposed that the Democratic press of Oregon, which started out three weeks since to descant in such sounding strains on the beauty and justice of repudiation, would so soon begin to sing small? When their platform was first made they could scarcely find words to express their exultation. The vital eighth resolution was to be the main feature of the contest. The issue presented by it was to dwarf all others. Nothing else was worthy of being considered. Loudly did those who were speaking for the party jubilate over the fact that they had at last a platform fit for bed-rock Democrats to stand on. The Herald in every issue sang pæans to repudiation. All its co laborers of the press united with it in chorus. Fay wrote his 'compulsory disgorgement' letter. Kelly stood up before a Portland audience and declared that if the bondholder would not submit to the repudiation of half his bonds by the beautiful system of "equitable adjustment," the whole of them should be cancelled, or repudiated, at once. And there was a general repudiation jubilee all round.

But a change has taken place. Throats that were howling loudly for repudiation and claiming it as a great Democratic principle are silent. Journals that were wont to essay "red-hot leaders" in praise and exaltation of the eighth resolution have quit their theme. It no longer has any charms for them. Can it be that a "great principle" has expired so soon?

The fact is, the politicians who control the Democratic party are becoming really alarmed about the consequences of their utterances in favor of repudiation. They perceive that their platform, instead of supporting and carrying them triumphantly through the contest, is likely to sink them. They hear on all sides that Democrats of honest purposes are denouncing the platform and refusing to support the candidates who stand upon it. Hence they are now becoming extremely anxious to put in the background and hide out of sight the "great principle" on which they at first signified their intention to conduct the canvass. The Herald seems to have had enough of it, for it has been silent for days on the "vital eighth resolution." Col. Kelly has clearly had enough of it, and we venture the prediction that he will not repeat during the campaign that repudiation speech which he delivered some time since at Oro Fino Theater. The truth is, repudiation is just as unpopular as secession ever was, and Col. Kelly and his political associates have repeated the mistake they made in 1861.

But these gentlemen have made their record on this subject. They have defined their position, and it is too late for a disclaimer. They will not be permitted to blink their repudiation platform and their own [illegible] for repudiation, out of sight. They are on the record, and Republicans will hold them there. They started out in great exultation to make a fight on repudiation, and in this particular they shall be gratified. From now until the election they shall be held to their record, and all their attempts at evasion will not avail them.

What Is Doing It.

Foreign journals present estimates of the whole value of imports and exports of the country during the past year. In the two items of wheat and cotton, we exported, last year, a value of over $45,000,000 in excess of the preceding year's shipments. The increased value of wheat sent abroad was $24,637,517, and of cotton, a fraction short of $22,000,000. The exports of the latter in '69 were actually sixty-four millions of pounds less than in '68, but the increased value of the staple more than made good the difference. There are still immense quantities of wheat in or near the first hands, not yet sent forward to our sea-board. And of last year's cotton crop, now estimated at full three million bales, at least three fifths of which is regularly taken up by foreign consumers, less than 1,400,000 bales have yet been exported, and a full half million bales await shipments at New York, where the firmness of the foreign markets holds the price at 23¼c for an average grade. This makes every bale worth $120, free on board. The reader, upon these figures, may learn how our foreign exchanges are running so strong a balance in our favor. We are paying our debts, and fast regaining a solvent position as a Government and as a people.

Editorial Notes.

"As to the validity of the Fifteenth Amendment," says the Herald, "that is put in issue by the Democratic platform." Put in issue by whom? By the fag-end of Democracy out in Oregon, who don't poll an aggregate vote equal to the Republican majority in a single Congressional district in Illinois! Isn't that "putting the amendment in issue" with a vengeance?

There was a contest recently in the Pennsylvania Legislature over a seat in that body, the claimants being from a district in Philadelphia. The fact was established that the Democracy got into the ballot boxes of the district last October over two hundred fraudulent votes for their candidate, Diamond by name, all of which were cast by twenty-six New York "repeaters," at a cost of $25 and expenses each. But, then such things are no novelty in that quarter!

The Herald is felicitating itself on the supposition that colored men in Oregon can't vote in the June election because no act has been passed to enforce the Fifteenth Amendment. What has become of that odious and bloody act which the Herald printed a short time ago and said was sure to pass? It now admits that its allegations respecting that act were without foundation. But the Herald need not worry. We shall have an act to enforce the Amendment, in good time.

The Lexington (Mo.) Caucasian says of the Oneida tragedy: "The Yankee war steamer Oneida celebrated Washington's Birthday by going to the bottom of the ocean near Yokohama, Japan. One hundred and seventy nautical whelps of Doodle went down with her." Can't this ornament of the journalistic profession be induced to come out to Oregon to take charge of one of our Democratic newspapers? His "Red Hot" style would be just the thing. He could probably get a permanent situation on the Eugene Guard or Portland Herald.

The New York World is tireless in its exertions to bring its party up to a higher plane. It says: "The unfortunate circumstances of the last fifteen years have brought all the hide-bound old fogies of the country into the Democratic party as a place of refuge. In a young and undeveloped country like ours, no stationary party, or conservative party, has any chance of popularity. The country perpetually goes forward, and politicians must move on too or the country will leave them behind." The World has hit it exactly. That is the matter with the [illegible] Democracy.

The Herald is alarmed because Senator Sumner has introduced a bill which has gone to the Senate Judiciary Committee to provide that the word "white" shall be stricken out of the naturalization laws. Sumner is always doing something to frighten the Democracy. Last year he introduced a bill of the same sort, which went to the Judiciary Committee, but they reported against it, and that was the last of it. This bill will doubtless meet a similar fate. The Judiciary Committee is headed by Senator Trumbull, who is called a "Conservative," and who never does anything Sumner wants him to.

The revolt against the Tammany Ring in New York has been pretty effectually quelled, and the leaders of the "Young Democracy" have been whipped home to their kennels. The Tammany General Committee consists of 339 members, a majority of whom were at first against the Ring, but this majority was bought up or out generaled, and the Ring have it all their own way again. The secret of the Ring's power seems to be that a large ratio of its friends on the General Committee are office-holders, while their rebellious opponents are without any of the influence derived from the control of spoils. But it is believed that this quarrel will greatly weaken the Ring in future elections.

The Future of the Republican Party

[From the Chicago Post.]

There are those who think the final success of the fifteenth amendment to the Constitution brings the Republican party to an end. Its mission these persons think has been performed. Organized, in the first instance, to prevent the extension of African slavery on this continent, it was enabled chiefly by reason of the folly and madness of the friends of that terrible institution, to bring about its abolition everywhere, to break every bond, and set every man free. That having been done, not only, but the freedmen having been now put on their feet, have equal advantages with all other men in so far as government may justly interfere in such matters, what more is to be done?

What the Republican party must now do, say some, is to settle the tariff question, the finance question, measures of taxation, and other matters directly pressing upon the attention and the interests of the body politic. These persons think we shall have new party organizations upon these issues, that the old party machinery will fall to pieces and all things become new. We think this is not a correct view. It involves the error of supposing that while the government has made great progress of late years, the people remain in statu quo ante bellum. There could be no greater mistake. The new and better ideas which have now been incorporated in the Constitution, are but the result of popular progress. The American people have many years since ceased to chronicle small beer; and we may be sure they will not again go into that business. Unless these questions of tariffs, banks, and taxes, can be taken from the sphere in which they naturally belong—that of mere detail—they can never again be the basis for permanent political parties. The American people will never again debate through the medium of separate party organizations questions which do not involve principles, as distinguished from mere measures and policies. And this for the conclusive reason that the people can settle these matters of mere detail within parties organized for more important objects. Parties should have to do only with essentials. Non-essentials are managed on different principles.

The difference between the Republican and the Democratic party, is that the one is a party of progress and the other a party of retrogression. The Republicans believe in marching on. The Democrats believe in moving backward. The mission of the Republican party cannot be ended until the end of all political evil shall come, until all misery and wrong springing from government shall have passed away. The adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment will unquestionably result in great good, but not immediately. The embodiment in law of other reforms brought about by the Republicans will result in great good. But to stand still is a crime, to retrograde is both a crime and a blunder. Between the progressive and retrogressive elements of the body politic there is an irrepressible conflict. It can no more be repressed than storms can be repressed with umbrellas, or the tides driven back with mops.

Just now, there must needs be a transition period of parties. The Republicans will have enough to do for the present and immediate future in securing the victories of the past, in keeping down the retrograders. Meantime new issues, involving principles and progress, will arise. The progressive party will rally around these to support them, the retrogressive party will rally around their old banner to defeat them. Such is but a law of national nature, if we may so say. Such party movements, in the present stage of civilization, are no less natural than that rivers flow down stream. What those issues may be, it would not be safe yet to expressly predict. We think the question of popular education may be one of them, and we feel quite sure the emancipation of labor from the thraldom of overgrown capital, and by stupid and vicious rules of political economy, will be one of them. But whatever may be the issues, they will involve progress and beneficence for the people if adopted, retrogression and misery if defeated. They have but a bat-like view of our political situation who do not see where the Republican party will stand when these great issues of the future shall take form and shape. The Democrats will stand by Chaos and Old Night, the Republicans will help on with the glorious work of making the world brighter and better, and happier. The Democrats will stand gaping at the dead body cruelly dangling in the air, the Republicans will reverently rejoice, moving forward at the same time, that the soul goes marching on.

An Effective Answer

As an answer to the charges of the "malignity and despotism" displayed by the radicals in their treatment of the South, let us hear what Governor Alcorn, of Mississippi, who ought to be good authority on the subject, has to say. In his inaugural address, to which we referred a few days since, he said:

When, borne to the earth, I lay prostrate with my kindred of the south, no heel pressed upon my breast, no sword point pricked my throat, no hand tightened the rope that my own treason had knotted around my neck. The Suzerain against whom my people and myself had raised our hands in rebellion, stood over us as we lay upon the earth, and lifted his visor to tell us that he gave us our lives, our lands, our liberties. I, for one, gave back my soul to the sublime beneficence that I beheld at the moment of supreme apprehension, beaming like a radiance of heaven on the face of the Government of our fathers. My heart swelled at that instant to the dimensions of the patriotism of Henry Clay, and, knowing no north, no south, no east, no west, resolved henceforth to expiate its past error by a life of devoted love for the Union. And well do I know that the generous old Unionists of the South who surrendered to overwhelming force with unconquered souls, will, when the bitterness of submission shall have passed away, stand with me, touched into admiration in every fibre of their hearts by a magnificent mercy never shown before by a government since established authority first dealt with rebellion after the fierce fashion of "a short shrive and a long rope."

A BALL IN THE FAR WEST.—The local editor of a very far West journal having attended a ball on the frontier has felt moved after the manner of Jenkins, of the metropolitan press, to furnish a report of the dresses worn by some of the eminent ladies present:

"Miss A. was everlastingly scrumptious in an underskirt of red calico, flounced with blue muslin, surmounted with an overskirt of linsey, hooped in the rear en saddle-bag, with yellow bows. Waist à la strange, à la [illegible] de buster. Hair in a chignon resembling half a cabbage head. Extraordinary hefty."

"Mrs. B. wore a skirt of home made flannel displaying a very beautiful manner her No. 11 moccasins. Corsage de sangnoosh, ornamented with soldier buttons. Hair frizzé—perfume of cinnamon drops. Exclusively highfalutin."

"Madame C., a noted half breed belle, attracted an all-fired sight of comment by appearing in a hoopskirt ornamented with fox tails encircumbendibus. Waist of yellow flannel, slashed with straps of buffalo hide. She carried a big sun flower, and danced with great liveness. Terrifically magnificent."

These maps exhibit the character and exact location of every man's claim in the county as well as the land that is unoccupied. They are copied from the plats and records of the land office.

Mail Contracts for Oregon

The Washington correspondent of the Eugene City State Journal, writes March 17th:

I sent a list of contracts awarded last Monday for carrying the mails in Oregon for four years from the first of July next. Several contracts have since been awarded, some are still suspended on the ground that the bids are too high or for other reasons, and others are held back on the ground that the service is not necessary. The following is a complete list of all the contracts let, and all the routes suspended, not included in the list sent last Monday, as appears from the books of the Post Office Department at this time: From Dalles to Canyon City weekly, let to J. W. Blakeney on Monday, has been extended through to Boise City, and let to C. M. Lockwood, at $12,000 per annum. Auburn to Umatilla, weekly, marked on the books "suspended," Dalles by Umatilla and Wallula to Walla Walla, weekly, marked on the books "not necessary," Canyon City to Baker City, weekly, "not necessary," Dalles to Boise City three times a week, "held for Utah," Portland by Dayton and Monmouth to Corvallis, weekly, "suspended," Auburn to Umatilla, weekly, "suspended," Umatilla by Snoqualmie Pass to Seattle, weekly, "suspended," Portland to Astoria three times a week in steamboats, J. C. Ainsworth, O. S. N. Co., $7,000; Portland to Dalles in steamboats, six times a week, suspended—"bid too high;" Salem by Rola and Rickreal to Dallas, three times a week, Jesse C. Lewis, $596; Grand Ronde by Dallas and Independence to Buena Vista, weekly, "suspended for the present;" Salem by Lincoln and Zena to Wheatland weekly, James Mitchell, $29[illegible]; Layfayette by McMinnville, Bellevue and Sheridan, to Grand Ronde, twice a week, Wisdom Millsaps, $500; Albany by Peoria, Burlington and Harrisburg to Lancaster, twice a week, Wm. W. Clover, $900; Oakland by Kellogg's and Scottsburg to Gardiner, weekly, John Snider, $795; Gardiner by Empire City and Randolph to Port Orford, weekly, Wm. Hathaway, $1,574; Roseburg by Camas Valley and South Fork of Coquille to Port Orford, weekly, "not necessary;" Jacksonville by Applegate to Waldo, twice a week, Charles Griffeth, $875; Baker City to Auburn, once a week, Sylvester Grier, $300; Centerville to Forest Grove weekly, A. E. Brown, $93; Oregon City to Dayton in steamboats, three times a week, P. T. Co., $1,200; Express Ranch by Rye Valley to Humboldt Basin, weekly, Charles W. Durkee, $1,600; Albany by Boston Mills to Brownsville, weekly, Winfield Blain, $349; Corvallis to Newport, Yaquina Bay, three times a week in summer and weekly in winter, Simon Bethess, $1,775; Lewisville to Elk City, weekly, "suspended;" Roseburg to Albany by Lebanon and Camp Polk, to Mountain House weekly, "suspended;" Roseburg to Randolph, weekly, Anthony Fink, $2,000; Corinne, Utah, to Virginia City, Montana, daily, Gillmore and Saulsbury, $9,650; Kelton, Utah to Dalles, Oregon, daily, Theodore Lee, $75,000.

A very large number of bids were received. The 127 routes in California brought in 729 bids; 41 routes in Oregon 362 bids, 20 routes in Washington Territory, 129 bids, 19 routes in Idaho 127 bids, 26 routes in Montana, 320 bids, 3 routes in Wyoming, 46 bids, 31 routes in Nevada, 451 bids, 31 routes in Utah, 422 bids, 33 routes in Colorado, 378 bids, routes in New Mexico, 274 bids, showing that on an aggregate of 355 routes there was 3,572 proposals, on an average of over ten for each route. There is a material decrease in the compensation. For instance, the reduction on the route from Oroville to Portland is from $210,000 to $80,000 per annum, which, however, is believed to be less than the service can be performed for without loss to the contractor, and on the route from Kelton to the Dalles the amount has been reduced from $135,000 to $75,000.

San Francisco Woolen Manufactures—Important Project.

[From the San Francisco Bulletin, April 4th.]

It is reported that the removal of the "Mission and Pacific Woolen Mills, Consolidated," to Hunter's Point, South San Francisco, is now in progress. The machinery of these well known establishments located on Folsom street at the Mission, has, we understand, been purchased entire by Donald McLellan from its former owners. Mr. McLellan is stated to have associated with him a number of well known gentlemen, capitalists and others, and the machinery of both mills is to be removed to South San Francisco, where spacious brick buildings are to be constructed. The land at South San Francisco consists of two large squares, eligibly situated for the purposes required. The new mills, in connection with the usual assortment of blankets, cassimeres, tweeds, flannels, cloths, etc., so long and favorably known in this market, will produce the finest styles of tweeds, cassimeres and heavy beaver cloths that can be made from the best qualities of wool produced in this State or Oregon. For this purpose one of the Superintendents of the Mission Woolen Mills is now in Great Britain examining the newest and most improved machinery used in making the finer varieties of goods named, with the view of procuring such machines as may be superior to those now here. Special agents have also been sent to France and Belgium for the same purpose, and any improvements in machinery or mode of manufacture it is intended to adopt in the new mills.

A novel feature to be connected with the mills is the manufacturing of the finest grade of goods into clothing and thereby competing with importations of similar styles of men's wear from the Atlantic States. It is contemplated the mills will turn out 45,000 suits of men's and boy's clothing the first year, and to cease the quantity as the market may require. In this way increased consumption of home made goods will be had, and at the same time an additional field for labor given to several hundred more persons. It is also intended to give employment to about 200 boys and girls between the ages of 14 and 18 years and gradually to dispense with Chinese labor altogether.

In connection with other new manufactures will be the making of all styles of ingrain carpets, for which there is a very large demand and which has hitherto been entirely supplied by importations. The coarse grades of our native wools have hitherto been exported at low prices to be manufactured in the Atlantic States and then be returned here for sale. It is stated by those pursuing a [illegible] with this branch of manufacturing that [illegible] grades of goods can be made [illegible] and a less price than they can be imported. Specimens of these carpets were a few years since at the Mission Mills and exhibited at our Mechanics' Fair that certainly had [illegible] equal in quality imported.

The usual range of knitting [illegible] will be made by the [illegible] Woolen Mills, and it is expected that by combining the two mills so as to run them both by one engine or steam power in connection with their advantages a large percentage of manufacture will be saved. In fact the gradual appreciation of currency to coin values, it is said, will greatly help woolen manufactures in this State and decrease importations.

The total number of persons employed directly in the new mills when in full running order will be more than 700, while additional numbers will find piece work outside.

The new manufactures promise to be of great importance in stimulating other branches of industry, and the well known energy of the Director, Donald McLellan, will insure them a success.

There is a message in the Telegraph office for Mrs. A. S. Hinkle.

Sudden and Remarkable Deaths

The death of Gottschalk while at the piano in the act of performing his famous composition "La Morte," is by no means the first circumstance of its kind related in dramatic and musical history. We recall immediately Molière and his Malade Imaginaire. The chief personage of the comedy is a sick man, which part was played by the author himself. It was the fourth night of the run. Molière, weak and failing, went on for the character and got through it until the scene came in which his [illegible] was to fall as if dead. This he did so well that the audience as well as the persons in the play were deceived. But, alas, it was no acting, for the poor dramatist was dead in truth. So says Bayle's account, but in another book there is a statement that Molière was attacked in the scene where he speaks of rhubarb and senna, passing himself off for a physician—the blood gushing from his mouth and nostrils, and his limbs quivering with convulsion.

He was taken home, and his sufferings ceased forever two hours afterwards. In biographical history there are some names especially interesting to readers of all tastes. One of these is poor Wilmot, the Earl of Rochester, of whom Hawthorne speaks so tenderly in his English travels, and another Captain Farquhar. Farquhar died during the run of his "Beaux Stratagem"—perhaps his very best work. "Look on them kindly," said he in his letter to Wilkes, speaking of his two little children soon to be fatherless, "for the sake of him who was to the last hour of his life thine." With Hughes it was more singular still. He died in an hour after he received the account of the success of his "Seige of Damascus." Moody, the tragedian, fell a corpse in the very middle of his performance of Claudio in Shakespeare's "Measure for Measure." He had been very melancholy for some time on account of the loss of some member of the family, and on the evening of the play was more than once seen to retire to his dressing room and weep. But his impersonation was much better than it had ever been before—so much so, indeed, that his fellow-actors remarked it. At last, in the scene where Isabella bids him prepare for execution, and he answers in those beautiful lines beginning, "Ay, but to die and go we know not where," he suddenly became faint and fell to the stage. The audience for a moment imagined it was a new point and applauded accordingly. But the truth was very soon made manifest. Claudio's heart had bursted with grief! Somewhat similar was the death of John Palmer, for whom Sheridan may be said to have written, "The School for Scandal." The bill of the night was "The Stranger." Palmer, who had been, like Moody, beset with melancholy for some time before, played the gloomy Count in the early acts with unusual effect. After uttering the line, "There is another and a better world," with most touching pathos, he suddenly paused, closed his eyes and leaned upon the Francis of the night, Mr. Whitfield. He had spoken his last words upon earth. Edmund Kean's last appearance was in "Othello," of which occasion Barry Cornwall and Mr. Hawkins have given very touching accounts. It seems that all had gone well until the third act, gleams of the old fire had flashed forth and electrified the house as in the earlier days, and many hoped to see the tragedian yet recover and play many times again. But when he came to those grand lines:

> Oh, now, forever

he paused. Then pealed forth in tones solemn and sweet as the wailing of an organ, tones so full of love, so wild with vain regret that eternal adieu to happiness in which we have the heavings of a breaking heart, the despairing lament of a lost soul. He proceeded slowly, slowly, until the music of the last cadence became but a breath—"Othello's occupation's gone!" It was over. The house rose frantically. "Speak to them, Charles," whispered the actor to his son, "I am dying!" And so he was. Yet another strange anecdote may be related of this fatal coincidence in death. An American actress whose name we have forgotten was performing to the part of Mrs. Sheppard in the drama of "Jack Sheppard." In one scene her business was to stab herself. "Now," said she laughingly to some one in the wing just before entering the stage, "I will go on and be killed and then go home." Thoughtless jest! She had scarcely stepped forward three feet before a heavy weight fell from the flies and crushed her instantly. In the cases of Moody and Palmer it is probable that their spirits, already in a state of deep despondency, were seriously affected by the parts they were performing. Actors of very strong nervous temperament very often lose their identity in this manner, so much so as to give way to violent fits of weeping in the very middle of the scene, as, for instance, the late Mr. Brooke on several occasions, or to a more dangerous madness, such as sometimes beset the older Booth in "Richard the Third," but the instances we have related of instant death from excess of emotion (or whatever it may be called) are the only ones recorded.—From "Nebula," in the April Galaxy.

THE DIFFERENCE.—A Western paper says General Thomas was just such a commander as McClellan, without Mac's statesmanship. This ought to be qualified a little. Thomas and McClellan were only alike in being each the commander of a large force. As for the rest, Thomas always won his fights, while Mac was always repulsed. It was possibly owing to his tinkering with politics that he was defeated in the field. If that is statesmanship the country ought to be thankful Thomas had none of it.

Three hundred thousand feet of lumber has been sawed away during March, at the sawmill in the lower portion of the city.

Mr. Walker, the Pioneer Hatter, has removed his place of business to Front street, between Stark and Washington.

A new plank road is being laid along North Front street, opposite the Portland Gas Works It is intended to extend northward to the lumber yard of Messrs. Estes & Stimpson

The steamship Ajax now in the dry dock at San Francisco, undergoing repairs, will probably be the next steamer for this port.

The river looks turbid, and considerable quantities of driftwood are constantly passing on the current which rolls by unusually strong

Upon examination before Judge Upton yesterday, the man Bain (so called) was held for further investigation.

THAT SALMON.—The salmon alluded to yesterday as being in prospect for sundry editorial dinners, came in due time, and we again thank Messrs. Hume & Cook for their liberal donation We doubt whether a finer fish ever entered fresh water from the sea, than that salmon and Messrs. Hume & Cook could not devise a better sign for their establishment than it would have made. It was a tempting bait to send to Chicago, as an illustration [illegible] of Oregon and if we could have been assured that it would reach its destination in good order, it should have gone to Ex Governor Bross of the Tribune. The fish weighed 44 lbs [illegible] inches through, 13 inches high and [illegible] feet [illegible] inches long.

TABLEAUX VIVANT.—Those ladies and gentlemen having charge of the festival and tableaux to be given at Armory Hall, on Stark street, this evening, have thus far spared no pains in the arrangement of the details for having a pleasant evening's entertainment. The price of admission has been fixed at only 50 cents.

U. S. COURTS.—On the 18th inst., Monday next, the U. S. District Court will meet in this city. On the 19th the U. S. Circuit Court will

BOISTEROUS.—A woman under the influence of liquor was taken to jail last evening in an express wagon. Her little child which accompanied her was provided for by Marshal Saunders. We think she is the same poor creature of whom we spoke about two weeks ago as having been [illegible] admittance into a private house in the western part of the city. The authorities should interfere in this case and provide a place for [illegible] and the mother [illegible]

DELINQUENT TAX LIST.—Sheriff Al Zieber yesterday submitted to the County Court a return of taxes collected in this county on the assessment of 1869. The list will not come up for [illegible] until Friday however and no record of the matter was made yesterday but we learn incidentally that $80,000 has been collected on the list and paid over to the Treasurer, leaving a delinquent list of little more than $14,000

WORK TO BE RESUMED.—Preparations are fully made to resume work on the United States buildings in this city If the weather will at all permit operations will be renewed as early as next week A large force will be employed in various capacities in connection with this and other Government buildings in the State and good wages will be paid Col Kelly take notice

"MORE LIGHT."—Openings were being made for the passage of more light yesterday through the brick wall to Mrs. Clarke's millinery rooms on Washington street Through the frame wall in the rear of Dr Chapman's store, on Alder street and through the partition in the P. T. Co.'s office, foot of A street

COUNTY COURT.—In matter of the estate of Ed H. Kent, in County Court, yesterday Messrs A. Hushwiler W. P. Duland and J. P. Ward were appointed appraisers The customary quarterly accounts were audited by the Commissioners and Court adjourned until Friday next, at 10 o'clock A. M.

FALLING.—The welcome intelligence was received here last evening that the Wallamet was receding at Eugene City Corvallis and Albany, yesterday On Tuesday the river at Albany was rising at the rate of three inches per hour This dispels the prospect of an overflow of the wharves of this city

A DOG SUIT.—On Tuesday last, Arthur Fay brought suit against T. A. Hoffman and W. H. Carter for damages on account of a dog belonging to defendants biting complainant's horse. The case was examined before Justice Work, and a verdict rendered for the defendants.

INJURED BY A FALL OF A HORSE.—On Monday evening last a lad aged about 13 years, son of Rev Mr Lindsley, Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of this city, was injured by the fall of a horse he was riding One of his lower limbs was broken

THE RIVER.—The rise in the Wallamet yesterday was but a few inches at this place From present appearances the rise will have about reached its highest to day, and no trouble is anticipated along the wharves

ALL OFF.—On the day we observed one of the dump cars off the track at East Portland, we learn that all three were off The time occupied in getting them back upon the track was less than three quarters of an hour

APPLES.—In addition to 319 boxes of apples received per steamer Alert yesterday, a scow brought up in tow of the Fannie Troup, had 100 boxes on board, which were transferred to the steamer for California

CEMENTVILLE LUMBER.—The bark Helen W Almy, Capt Freeman, will load partly with hoop poles, etc, from here, but the bulk of her cargo will consist of 260,000 feet of lumber from the Cementville mills

PERSONAL.—J S. White, Esq., of Umatilla county, an old resident of this city, who has been in town on business for a week past, leaves this morning for his home.

PLAZA CONCERT.—The usual attendance for a fair day, to listen to the music and promenade about the plaza, were out yesterday.

LIVE HOGS.—The Alert yesterday brought down six live hogs, consigned to a Chinaman who disbursed them amongst his kindred.

FAVOR.—Mr Quinn, of the Franklin Fish Market, on Washington street, has our thanks for favors yesterday

CLEAR.—The evenings are now clear, and Luna lights the streets All of yesterday was beautiful weather

President's Message on the Fifteenth Amendment.

To the Senate and House of Representatives It is unusual to notify the two Houses of Congress, by message, of the promulgation by proclamation of the Secretary of State of the ratification of a constitutional amendment In view, however, of the vast importance of the Fifteenth amendment of the Constitution, this day declared a part of that revered instrument, I deem a departure from usual custom justifiable

A measure which makes at once 4,000,000 people voters, who were heretofore declared by the highest tribunal in the land not citizens of the United States, nor eligible to become so, with the assertion that at the time of the Declaration of Independence, the opinion was fixed and universal in the civilized portion of the white race and regarded as an axiom in morals as well as in politics, that black men had no rights which white men were bound to respect, is indeed a measure of grander importance than any other one act of the kind from the foundation of our free government to the present time Institutions like ours, in which all power is derived directly from the people, must depend mainly upon their intelligence, patriotism and industry I call the attention of the newly enfranchised race to the importance of their striving in every honorable manner, to make themselves worthy of their new privilege To the race more favored, heretofore, by our laws I would say withhold no legal privilege of advancement to these new citizens

The framers of our Constitution firmly believed that a republican form of government could not endure without intelligence and education generally diffused among the people The Father of of Country, in his farewell address, used this language "Promote, then, as a matter of primary importance, institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge In proportion as the structure of the Government gives force to public opinion it is essential that public opinion should be enlightened" In his first annual message to Congress the same views were forcibly presented and are again urged in his eighth message

I repeat that the adoption of the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution completes the greatest civil change and constitutes the most important event that has occurred since the Nation came into life This change will be beneficial in proportion to the heed that is given to the urgent recommendations of Washington If these recommendations were important then, with a population of but a few millions, how much more important now with a population of forty millions and increasing in a rapid ratio I would therefore call upon Congress to take all means within their constitutional power to promote and encourage popular education throughout the country, and upon the people everywhere to see to it that all who possess and exercise political rights shall have the opportunity to acquire that knowledge which will make their share in the Government a blessing and not a danger By such means only can the benefits contemplated by this amendment to the Constitution be secured

Ho! ye young men who revel in fashion and wear "store clothes," ye prudent men who buy goods to get the worth of your cash, ye old men who buy goods to last the remainder of your lives, or any other man or boy who wants to buy the cheapest and best clothing, go to Kohn & Fishel, who have just opened the largest stock of Gents' Clothing and Furnishing Goods in the city They have all the late styles of spring goods and propose to sell at rates that will please everybody

STEAM ENGINE ECONOMY.—It is easy to show that it is true economy to sell an old engine for scrap iron and purchase an improved one at full rates rather than to pay for the extra coal For instance there are few engines working of the old style, regulating by the throttle valve, that furnish an indicated horse power for four and one half pounds of coal per hour for each net or effective horse power An engine developing eighty net horse power would then require 4,000 pounds of coal per day or say 4,200 including banked fires at night This for a year or 300 working days would equal 630 tons which would cost in many localities, upwards of four thousand dollars Now a new engine with cut off adjusted automatically by the governor of a size capable of furnishing economically eighty net horse power costs from $4,000 to $4 500 So it is safe to say that engines constructed with no regard for economy require yearly for fuel alone an expenditure of money equal to the first cost of a new engine —Scientific American

A Torpid System.

Sometimes, without any assignable cause, the physical strength and animal spirits give way and a strange torpor falls alike on the body and the intellect There is little or no pain perhaps but the natural vigor and elasticity of the nervous and muscular system seems to have departed and an indifference to the pleasures of life, and even of its grave responsibilities takes the place of that earnest interest in both which characterizes every well balanced mind when in a healthy condition

This state of partial collapse is often the premonitory symptoms of some serious malady It indicates unmistakably that the vital powers are languishing and need a stimulant In such cases the effect of a few doses of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is wonderfully beneficial The great tonic wakes up the system from its drowse The secretions and the circulation receive a new impetus The relaxed nerves recover their elasticity under the operations of the specific, like the slackened strength of a musical instrument in the process of tuning Lethargy and debility are replaced by energy and vigor the spirits rise, and life that almost seemed a burden while the season of depression lasted becomes once more enjoyable That such a radical change should be produced by a remedy entirely devoid of the powerful alkaloids and minerals so extensively used in modern practice may seem incredible to those who pin their faith on the medicinal efficacy of active poisons but if these skeptics will take the trouble to enquire of those who have tested the corrective and alterative virtues of the Bitters under the circumstances described they will find the statement to be true

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

The Union Republican party of Oregon, in Convention, makes this declaration of its principles and policy

1st Unfaltering devotion to the Union, first, last, and forever, and unwavering fidelity to the Constitution and its amendments, and to the laws of our National Legislature.

2d We wholly approve the principles and policy of the administration of President Grant, as carrying into practical application the principles for which we have successfully striven And we particularly commend these points in his Inaugural Address, wherein he declares—"let it be understood that no repudiator of one farthing of our public debt will be trusted in public places, and it will go far towards strengthening a credit which ought to be the best in the world," and "I would protect the law abiding citizen, whether of native or foreign birth, wherever his rights are prejudiced or the flag of our country floats" and "I will have no policy to enforce against the will of the people"

3d We have confidence that the Administration will wisely and firmly protect the interests and sustain the dignity of the Nation in respect to other nations, and especially with regard to our just claims against Great Britain

4th We denounce all forms of repudiation as a national crime,—and the national honor requires the payment of the public indebtedness in the uttermost good faith to all creditors at home or abroad, not only according to the letter, but the spirit of the laws under which it was contracted And for this purpose, we favor a strict economy in the Administration of the National Government, and the application to such payment of all surplus revenue, from whatever sources derived and that taxation should be equalized and reduced as rapidly as the national faith will permit

5th We make no distinction between citizens, whether of foreign or native birth, and that we sympathize now and ever with men of all nationalities striving for self government.

6th. That we are opposed to any change in our naturalization laws which shall admit to citizenship any foreigners not now entitled thereto under said laws

7th We favor a judicious system of railroad and river improvements in Oregon, in order to develop our resources and invite settlement of our unoccupied territory—and for this purpose insist that Congress should make us liberal grants of aid.

8th. We are in favor of a tariff for revenue, with such discriminations in favor of our domestic manufactures as will not diminish its efficiency for the purposes of revenue

9th. We favor universal amnesty to the people of those States lately in rebellion, which have been restored to full relations in the Union

10th We are in favor of fostering the cause of education, and are opposed to any diversion of the common school funds of this State to any other purpose than the support of common schools

11th We recognize in the Union Republican party the measures and men who saved the Government from destruction, and that its continuance in power is the only sure safeguard to national peace and prosperity And with this platform we appeal to the voters of Oregon for their suffrages and support

MULTNOMAH COUNTY CONVENTION.

The Union Republican voters of Multnomah county are requested to meet at the usual places of voting in their respective precincts on Saturday the 2d day of April 1870, at one o'clock P M, and choose delegates to attend a County Convention to be held at the Court House in Portland, on the 9th day of April, 1870 at 10 o'clock A M for the purpose of nominating a Legislative and County ticket and appointing a County Central Committee for the ensuing two years

PASSAGE OF THE CULLOM BILL—GENTILES ALARMED AND PLEADING FOR THE MORMONS—MEMORIAL TO THE SENATE—DIFFICULTY FORESHADOWED

[Cor S F Bulletin]

SALT LAKE CITY, March 27 1870

THE CULLOM BILL—THE EXCITEMENT AMONG THE PEOPLE

The passage of the Cullom bill through the House on Wednesday was an unlooked-for event by the Mormons. It has taken them by surprise and the news fell upon their ears with a fearful significance of trouble. The general impression seems to have been that Congress would never have passed it, and, consequently little attention was paid to it. It was sneered at and ridiculed for its ferocity, and too sweeping in its penalties to be seriously looked at. When the motion, on Tuesday, to table the bill was lost by three to one, that was the first indication here of seriousness. The next day the bill was passed, after some pruning, and hope is yet cherished that the sober heads of the Senate will reject it altogether or prune it so freely that the bill, when it becomes law, will be such that war can be avoided. The passage of the bill as it is now and President Grant pledged to enforce it, the breaking up of this community can only be averted by the operations of an overruling Providence, whose programme to us is as yet undefined. I am no alarmist, but I must avow that I meet no one who has ever seen such unpleasant forbodings of trouble here before, and that which makes the situation the more unpleasant is the fact that, with peace, Utah has before her a most flattering future. We need nothing but peace. The mountains and hill-sides are revealing their astonishingly rich ores, in every direction, and with the coming summer there must be a grand development of mineral wealth.

GENTILES ALARMED, AND IN SYMPATHY WITH THE MORMONS—MEETING HELD

Your telegraphic correspondent informed you of the meeting held last evening in the Masonic Hall to memorialize the Senate for the extinction of certain section of the Cullom bill, as it passed the House. It was an intensely interesting meeting, and I report it for your readers—believing, as I do, with Fitch and Sargent, that the Pacific States and Territories surrounding us are all interested in the conservation of peace.

The meeting originated with gentlemen entirely disconnected with Mormonism—some of whom have always been suspected of having taken an active part in the creation of the Cullom bill. Whether they had done so or not is of little consequence now, but certain it is—if they have done so—they are now appalled at their own handiwork. By these a private circular was issued, inviting the principal merchants and other gentlemen to meet them last night. Mr. Robertson, a Gentile lawyer was called to the Chair, and a New Movement Mormon was appointed Secretary.

SPEECH OF MR. KELSEY.

E. B. Kelsey, the Apostle of the New Movement, was the first speaker. He had four wives living, was the father of a numerous family. He had been twenty-four years a polygamist. He was an American from an ancient stock, by birth, by interest, by every aspiration of his soul, he was a loyal citizen. He had, in the past, believed it to be his duty before God to increase his family as had done Abraham and the patriarchs of that race, and he had taken wives as they had done. For over fourteen years before ever Congress had mooted a word of opposition to polygamy, he was a conscientious supporter of the institution, and since the passage of the law of 1862 Congress was itself censurable for the indifference it had manifested to the maintenance of the law they had placed on the statute book. The people of Utah, from the assurances they had had from their leaders that the law of 1862 was unconstitutional and from the indifference of Congress to the enforcement of the law, had honestly believed that the revelation commanding polygamy was obligatory upon them. To honor that obligation, and not from perversity and disloyalty to the Government, had they disregarded the anti-polygamy bill. With such facts before them, he thought that the Congress of the United States could afford to show their magnanimity to the erring of the past. Now that Congress assumed the determination to arrest the further practice of polygamy and would fine, imprison, and fight, he was [illegible] with such provision in the Cullom bill as would make penal the transgression in the future. They might pile up penalties as high as Elias for the future, he should not lift his voice against them, but for the past there was no remedy. He would [illegible] the wives he had as concubines and his children as bastards, though it cost him his life.

MR. HARRISON'S REMARKS

[illegible] Harrison said he wished to say that he had never been a polygamist, and counseled obedience to the laws of the country. With the prospect before Utah of a rich development of loyal sentiment towards the Government, he cherished the hope that the Senate would so amend the House bill as to cover the errors of the past, and for that purpose, though himself entirely unaffected by the law, he would gladly join in any memorial to Congress that would protect the people.

"ONE GORDON" EXHIBITS HIMSELF.

One Gordon, who had been disfellowshipped from the Mormon church, was extremely lively. He sells cheap whisky. He wanted "Congress and the Lord to have a tussell." They had been taught so much about the divinity of polygamy that he now wanted to see it tested. In gruff, burly Scotch he "wanted the sword to fa'." He "had been a polygam-ist as weel as the ithers, but whan the law cam' he said stop, and it stopt wi' me," and he now wanted "the Lord and Congress to fecht it oot."

BROTHER STENHOUSE "GOES AFTER" HIM, AND GIVES HIS VIEWS.

B. H. Stenhouse, evidently riled at the vulgarity of the previous speaker, expressed the hope that no one would forget that this was a meeting of gentlemen, assembled for the purpose of adopting such measures as they hoped might, in the cause of humanity, serve the people of Utah in a trying moment of their history. He was personally unaffected by the Cullom bill, but he saw an honest, virtuous, hardworking people threatened with fines, imprisonments and the disfranchisement of all their political rights for observing what they had honestly believed a religious obligation, and he considered it his duty to join in any memorial to Congress that would induce the reconsideration of those sections in the Cullom bill that dealt with the past. The speaker passed in review the circumstances that led to the passage of the first anti-polygamic law in 1862, and showed that it was the vindictive rancor of a few persons here, and not the clear and deliberate action of the members of Congress, which had brought that law into existence. That it was hastily engineered through, loaded with so many imperfections, that it had ever been a dead letter on the statute books. Congress was then engaged in a war for the preservation of the Union, and neither then nor since had given it attention. An Attorney-General of the United States had furnished a written opinion to the Mormon leaders on the unconstitutionality of the law, and Mr. Lincoln had himself regarded the law as so much waste paper. The speaker added that Mr Lincoln had personally stated to him in 63 "that if the Mormons let him alone he would let them alone," and that was truly his disposition on that subject. Mr. S contended that as the people had acted upon the teachings of their religious faith, with so many and oft-repeated declarations of the unconstitutionality of the law, that their past course in that particular had not been in "open defiance of Congress," as asserted. The demand that polygamists of the past should break-up their families could not be entertained by the mass of the Mormon people. It was impossible. The few rich might separate their families into different houses, but the bulk of the polygamic families in Utah were poor, and compelled to live together and to eat at the same board for economy. To ask such men to put away their wives and children was but to punish the innocent; for the husband could not possibly maintain them apart. The framers of the original bill made provision for the sad work they saw they were about to accomplish, and in section 31 "enacted" that the Secretary of the Treasury be "authorized and directed to afford such temporary relief to destitute persons in said Territory as cannot be relieved under the last section and who are not convicted of crime, and are reduced to destitution by the enforcement of the laws against polygamy, etc." This section was excluded from the bill in its passage through the House. Congress believing no doubt that there would be no necessity for it, but the men who framed the bill in Salt Lake City judged rightly that it would come to this necessity should Congress enforce their bill.

With such facts before them individual views of men in Salt Lake City and their past policy and course had to be sunk, and in the name of a common humanity this question had now to be looked at fairly and squarely for the people's sake.

OTHER SPEECHES

Mr Tullidge contended that loyalty to country was the first duty of man. That the past in Mormonism had been a mistake, but the future was glorious.

Mr Jennings said he was a polygamist, but it was not the luxury that Gen. Maxwell thought. He had never borne a heavier cross. He would like to ask of the General which of the children could he scatter abroad fatherless and their mothers disgraced. He had obeyed the law of polygamy from the most sacred sense of obligation that he could comprehend. He would defend his wives and children to his latest breath.

Mr. Chislett never believed in polygamy neither for this world nor for the next. He could not comprehend it. He viewed the country and the situation of the people, and knew their honesty. He would join in urging the Senate to refrain from what would naturally be regarded as persecution. There was a mineral development everywhere in the Territory that would draw capital and a new class of inhabitants, and if the government would only deal with the future of polygamy, this country would become one of the finest places on the American continent.

Mr Lawrence was a New Movement Mormon with two wives, he loved them, and would protect them and their children. He had been reared in the Mormon Church, and taught to be virtuous and pure. He had never violated the laws of purity, and he lived with his wives as purely as he presumed he could have done in monogamy. He had become a polygamist from religious teaching and conviction, and believed the anti polygamic law of '62 unconstitutional. He felt it his duty to obey the laws of Congress till their unconstitutionality could be settled.

Mr. Walters, a Jew, said he knew what it was to suffer persecution for one's faith. His father had died under persecution, and he was opposed to persecuting the Mormons or any other persons.

FINANCE AND COMMERCE.

PORTLAND, Wednesday April 13th, 1870.

There is no gold dispatch to-day

Legal Tenders are quotable at 89@89¼

It may be predicted with much certainty that we have seen the last of high gold premiums, and that the fluctuations in the relative values of gold and paper which have for several years so seriously affected the business of the country, are practically at an end. We believe that it may be taken for granted, first that no funding bill will be passed to disturb the greenback legal tenders. Second, that no funding bill will be suffered to interfere injuriously with the national banks. Third, that no part of the interest on the public debt will ever be paid abroad. Fourth, that the only funding measure likely to be authorized by Congress will be confined to the substitution of new stocks, bearing 5 or 4½ or 4 per cent for the present 6 per cents known as 5-20s, either by voluntary exchange on the part of the holders of the latter, or by the sales of the new stocks at par in gold, and the application of the proceeds to the paying off the 5-20s at par in gold. Fifth, that no experimental legislation will be permitted in regard to either early or late specie payments. If we are correct in this, it is difficult to foresee any event which shall prevent the steady, though perhaps not rapid, rise of legal tenders and national securities toward par, and along with that rise, a steady and easier money market.

The best informed Washington correspondents continue to assert that the Committee on Ways and Means will report in favor of a considerable reduction of the internal revenue taxes. The committee has been somewhat embarrassed by the conflict of opinion between the President and the Secretary of the Treasury on this subject but a majority of its members are unmistakably in favor of the President's plan for a decided reduction. We find the prevailing opinion to be that, the income tax is likely to be reduced to three per cent., and the other reductions will be mainly in the line of the recommendations made by Special Commissioner Wells in his report. The taxes on watches, plate, carriages, in fact all the articles included in schedule A, are pretty sure to be abolished entirely, as will most of the special and license taxes, except those imposed on the dealers in and manufacturers of, tobacco and spirits, while the taxes on transportation will be removed entirely or in greater part. The committee will advise a number of changes in the administrative portions of the law, intended to equalize taxation and render the collection of taxes more complete.

In regard to the trade of this city it is pretty generally held as certain that we are upon the eve of a better business season than has been enjoyed for at least two years past. The aggregate of sales thus far in this month will unquestionably show far better figures than those of the corresponding period last year. At no time in the last two years have the indications been more promising than now of a profitable trade with the country east of the mountains. The miners have exceptionally good prospects and the interior merchants are upon the strength of that buying more liberally and confidently than at any time since 1867. Already the amount of goods going up the Columbia constitute a business feature which was certainly not to be seen last year, and by no means constantly during the year previous.

Produce however remains inactive, except that there is a little better call for extra flour for the San Francisco market. The receipts to day were, Apples, 20 bxs; Bacon 11 cs; Eggs, 36 bxs; Flour, 1,620 qr sks, Feed 120 sks; Lard, 2 cs; Potatoes, 224 gunnies, Wheat 212 sks.

From all the States of the Mississippi Valley, and indeed from all the States and Territories of the Pacific slope, the accounts in regard to the grain crops point to a larger yield than ever before known. The Sacramento Union of the 7th says: "Our season set in unfavorably, and until the middle of January there was danger of a grand failure in wheat and barley from drought. Since then with much less than the average of rain but with a timely distribution of what was sent the season has been most favorable and we do not believe there ever was on the 7th day of April a finer prospect for an overwhelming harvest. A very wide area has been planted, and everywhere in bottoms and uplands, the crop has a vigorous and healthy appearance. Similar accounts of favorable weather and great breadth of land sown come from Idaho, Eastern Oregon and Washington.

The Walla Walla Union of the 9th says: "We have heard of a few peach trees about the city that will have a partial crop this year, but the exceptions are very few indeed. The early apples have nearly all been destroyed by the frost. There are some kinds of apples, the Gennitten, for example, being very late about blooming out, perhaps have escaped entirely. There will be perhaps a a few cherries and some plums. But there will be nothing like a full crop of any kind of fruits.

Mining Intelligence

The Boise Statesman of April 5 says: "We learn that the Boise river mines are yielding big and expect [illegible]. Lambing & Co worked six days with three hands and cleaned up $327. [illegible] & Co have sent up supplies and are preparing to [illegible] work their claims. At Logan Gulch, located by W. [illegible] Johnson, and owned by Johnson, Flannery & Co. they are bringing in a three mile ditch, and will commence work about the first of May. Alexander & Johnson are ready to work their ground. Prospects well. Smith & [illegible] are at work but have not cleaned up yet. [illegible] are working in the river and doing well.

The Walla Walla Union of the 9th has the following news items:

Every day witnesses the departure of parties bound for the Cedar Creek mines. [illegible] outfits—some with teams, [illegible] and mules, some on horseback with pack animals, others on horseback without pack animals, [illegible] on foot with a cayuse to carry blankets and grub, others go on foot and pack their blankets on their backs. But all go with high hopes of bettering their condition, and which we most sincerely hope may be realized.

Lieut. Harry [illegible] arrived here a few days ago from Kootenai, having snow shoed it about 400 miles. He made the down trip in twenty six days. He says a stampede from that camp over to Cedar Creek. The Fay's shaft is a failure. There are about 300 whites and Chinamen still in camp. [illegible], Slaw Marzan and Taylor are making preparations for mining on an extensive scale the coming season. The snow on the Moyea was about two feet deep, and in Kootenai [illegible] about four feet. The latter named place always presents the greatest difficulties to early travel to Kootenai. There is only beef cattle enough in the camp to last till July. There has been no scarcity of provisions and goods this winter, and prices of everything in the camp ruled remarkably low.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.

NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES!

Dr Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases [illegible] Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases of years standing and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of young men, both male and female, are there who are dragging out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences or from virus absorbed into the system [illegible] their pallid cheeks, sunken eyes and disfigured faces and their broken down constitutions disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life [illegible] this horrid situation (thousands [illegible]) [illegible] Let parents, guardians and friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible health destroying maladies—see that they are cured [illegible] before it be too late. Send them immediately to Dr. Gibbon a physician who has made private diseases his especial study for years and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted [illegible] those who are interested in the welfare of the afflicted to be careful of the many pretended doctors who [illegible] publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and their diplomas. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with [illegible] the following train of morbid symptoms [illegible] unscientific medical measures [illegible] dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of [illegible] chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and [illegible] eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequently insanity. If relief be not obtained should apply immediately either in person or by letter and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage who are suffering under any of these fearful maladies should not forget the sacred responsibility resting upon them nor delay obtaining immediate relief.

DOCTOR GIBBON'S fees are reasonable and will give to each patient a written guarantee binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure or make no charge

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME by addressing a letter to Dr Gibbon stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued and have medicines promptly forwarded free from damage and curiosity to any part of the country with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells Fargo & Co.

Caution to the Unfortunate.

Beware of the San Francisco quacks and pretenders who, with bogus sworn to certificates dupe the unwary. Some of the self styled doctors whose names are to be found in the daily and weekly newspapers of San Francisco and other places are tradesmen and became too lazy to work at their trades. Some are tinsmiths, shoemakers, newspaper carriers, intelligence office keepers, etc. Look over the San Francisco Directory, and you will not find their Medical Institutes in it, but you will find their former occupations in it. Look at the Directory for 1862 and 1863. The only way to avoid imposition is to make enquiry—it will cost you nothing and may save you many regrets, for as advertising physicians in eight cases out of ten are bogus, there is no safety in trusting any of them till you know who and what they are. Dr Gibbon does not [illegible] people by exhibiting bogus titles, certificates, pretended patient's letters etc. Dr Gibbon will satisfy persons who may call at his office of his ability to treat diseases that he proposes to cure.
